DETAILED ACTION

This communication is responsive to the amendment filed October 28, 2004.

Priority

Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

Claims 1-6 and 8, as understood, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Quigley ('279).

Quigley discloses a no-back device (Fig. 1) comprising a plurality of ratchet members (22) connectable to a rotating member, pawls (25), interlocking means (40), projections and indentations (Fig. 3, 40, 41). Regarding the limitation that the "ratchets/pawls members are formed from respective materials having different chemical and/or physical properties", the prior art discloses discrete members that would inherently exhibit distinct properties (point, linear, planar, and three-dimensional defects; in additions to those unique qualities caused by processing – e.g., voids, etc.) that yielding different physical traits. Concerning claim 1, since no frame of reference has been given for the angular offset of the ratchet member (e.g., teeth), any two arbitrary points would satisfy the claimed limitation.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 7 and 9-11 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed October 28, 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Concerning applicant's argument that Quigley is silent with regards to the problem faced by the inventor and that the features of the prior art does not have an effect over the performance and life of the parts, it is noted that the claim only requires materials having at least one of different chemical properties and different physical properties. Referring to the above explanation, it is believed that this limitation is anticipated by the prior art. In fact, even applicant's remarks acknowledge in theoretical terms the statistical possibility of such manufacturing/material occurrences. Moreover, notwithstanding the well known and above mentioned manufacturing/material inconsistencies, the differences between sections disclosed by the prior art (e.g., using a different die for different sections) would yield members with different physical properties (e.g., shape and mass). Therefore, for the aforementioned reasons, the rejections is deemed proper and the claims remain rejected as anticipated by the prior art of record.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
